Programme

The two-year full-time Post Graduate Programme in Management (PGP), rated as the top programme in the world to get admission, is the flagship programme of IIMA. Its main objective is to transform young men and women into competent professional managers, capable of working in an organized activity, proceeding leadership and achieving excellence in performance while ensuring the welfare of the larger society. The programme specifically attempts to:

- Equip students with the required conceptual and interpersonal skills and sense of sound managerial decision-making,
- Develop leadership capabilities to act as change agents and be a source of motivation for the organizations they work in,
- Nurture the desire to excel in performance without compromising integrity, honesty and ethics.

IIMA is known for the depth and rigour of the programme. The curriculum, reviewed and revised periodically, remains relevant and contemporary.

What is the curriculum like?

Every year the Indian Institute of Management at Ahmedabad admits select students in its graduate programme. They are hand-picked out of about 20,000 high scorers – the cream of the two lakh aspirants who sit for the annual Common Admissions Test. The intense competition for admission to IIMA's flagship management course affirms the Institute's ability to give the highest level of personal development, career opportunities, career satisfaction, and success. The IIMA stamp certifies knowledge, practical skills and confidence. Continuous review, with an eye on trends in management needs and challenges, keeps the IIMA curriculum up to date. It is rigorous and flexible, combining intellectual discovery and hands-on learning. While equipping students for their first job and it also prepares them for a lifetime of success.

What can students expect to do through the two year programme?

The two-year programme shapes competent professional managers, capable of achieving high performance in any sector of organized activity to turn out innovators and leaders with a commitment to the welfare of the larger society.

The PGP curriculum is designed to meet three objectives:

Equip students with the conceptual and interpersonal skills and sense of social purpose to enable effective managerial decision-making;

Develop leadership capabilities to act as change agents and be a source of motivation and inspiration in organizations they work in;

Nurture the desire to excel in performance without compromising integrity, honesty and ethics.

Courses are of four basic types:

Foundational courses:

No matter what career path a student ultimately follows, they are going to need to be grounded in four key disciplines: Accounting, Finance, Marketing, and Organizational Behavior

Courses oriented to tools and techniques:

These are the "how to's": among other things, these courses teach operations, costing and control, quantitative methods, research methods, human resource management, written analysis, and communication.

Functional courses:

Organizations succeed or fail on the basis of planning, organizing, staffing, directing and controlling: Courses such as Legal Aspects of Business, Macro-Economics and Planning, Strategy, Information Technology, Interpersonal and Group Processes are devoted to providing functional competence.

Courses that provide perspective:
