Master of Arts (MA) Bengali

What is M.A. in Bengali?

A Master of Arts in Bengali is a two-year postgraduate programme in Bengali Language and Literature provided by many colleges in India's West Bengal state. The M.A. in Bengali course allows students to learn a lot about the Bengali language and literature and the changes that have occurred over time, particularly in the 19th and 20th centuries. The Master's degree programme provides insight into the lives of great poets and authors. Some of them are Rabindra Nath Tagore, Sarat Chandra Chattopadhyay, Michael Madhusudhan Dutta others and the opportunity to read classic books such as Rabindra Nath Tagore's Gitanjali and sonnets (first introduced Michel Madhusudhan Dutta).

The course is taught in Bengali exclusively, and the exams will be given in Bengali alone. Internal assessments and semester-ending examinations are both descriptive and illustrative. Students will study the history of the Bengali language and literature through this course. Students will read various Bengali literary works such as plays, tales, novels, and poetry as part of the course.
