Ph.D in Education

Overview

Sharda University's doctoral education programmes prepare students on how to design and implement community education programs that promote knowledge and literacy. The programmes train students to be at the forefront of education research, curriculum, reform, instructional design, and administration. Scholars also get equipped with the knowledge of data collection and acquire analytical skills that help them in identifying the education requirements and establish an appropriate education system. These programmes are ideal for individuals who seek careers as university professors, teachers, educators or educational theorists.

Certain norms and procedures are strictly adhered to while assigning the research supervisors to the candidates admitted in the doctoral education programmes. Any violation of these norms or procedures shall result in the University taking serious steps like disqualification of student's candidature.
